ADG|Creative's Tech, Design & Strategy Expertise Wins Four New Clients

New Tech and Consulting Clients Fuel Firm's Growth

COLUMBIA, Md. (June 23, 2010): ADG|Creative has won four new clients recently, all of which will take advantage of ADG's expertise in technology, design and brand strategy development.

Enlightened (www.enlightened.com), an award-winning Washington, D.C.-based information technology firm serving defense and government agencies, has hired ADG to develop its new corporate website.

Aegis Mobile (www.aegismobile.com), based in Columbia, Md., has hired ADG to perform public relations and social media to launch and promote its mobile application, compliance service, media intelligence service, and its Apollo Mobile Platform for rapid mobile web application development.

Customer Service Experts (www.customerserviceexperts.com), an Annapolis based firm focused on providing customer experience solutions to improve service cultures in both business to consumer and business to business markets, has selected ADG to support new branding efforts.

V-Tech Solutions(www.v-techsolutions.net), an information technology and professional services firm focusing on enterprise infrastructure solutions for the federal sector, has hired ADG to create their new web presence.

"I'm excited to grow new partnerships with clients that see the value of ADG's creative and strategic talents," said Jeff Antkowiak, ADG's president and chief creative officer. "Each of these clients will allow us to flex our technology muscle in new ways while also providing an outstanding, creative final product."
